

Testimonial for St Vincent de Paul

Through my local church I used to deliver Christmas hampers on behalf of Vinnies with my then young children.

More recently I visited two domestic violence refuges operated by Vinnies. The visits made me want to support these facilities because of their ambience, their impressive staff and the programs run for those families fleeing domestic violence.

I plan to support Vinnies on an ongoing basis and leave a gift to them in my will. As with many of us, thanks to super and other assets, there is likely to be more available for charitable donations at the end of my life.

Even though I want to provide for the needs of my family when I die, I would also like to help others who have not been as lucky as me and a gift in my will can help do this. It is my hope that what I can do will help those suffering hard times to feel loved, get back on their feet and lead fulfilling lives.

I wish to lead by example so that my children and grandchildren see that this is a meaningful thing to do. I'd like them to remember me for doing this.
