A legacy of service and solidarity

Since ANZAC Day 1929, when veterans of the Australian Flying Corps (AFC) first united to uphold their deep camaraderie and shared values, the Air Force Association has stood as a pillar of support, remembrance, and community.

Today, Air Force Association WA Limited (RAAFA) is a mission-driven organisation that honours its roots while embracing the needs of today's community.

A lasting impact

RAAFA delivers lasting impact across generations by helping people live with dignity, purpose, and pride. Our charitable and heritage programs are anchored by three core objectives:

- Serving those who have served
- Inspiring future generations
- Preserving aviation heritage

Through practical services, financial assistance, housing, education programs, and historic preservation, we champion the wellbeing of our community and honour those who have paved the way.

Serving those who have served

RAAFA Care Fund: Delivering meaningful relief for Defence Force members and their families in difficult times.

Navigating DVA: Guiding veterans through the DVA process to secure needed support.

Transitional Housing – Sir Valston Hancock House: A safe environment where veterans work toward stability and long-term housing.

ARVL Program: When completed, emergency units will offer shelter and support for homeless or at-risk veterans, with a pathway to permanent housing.

Inspiring future generations

RAAFA scholarships and fellowships inspire ambition, honouring our aviation heroes by supporting young Australians in pursuit of excellence.

Preserving Aviation Heritage

The Aviation Heritage Museum offers more than displays— it provides immersive stories of courage and innovation through interactive exhibits and school programs.
